

Colmar Brunton, in partnership with the Australian Marketing Institute, celebrate 10 years of the Australian Senior Marketer Monitor.

Each year, since 2009, we've dived into the world of Australia's senior marketing professionals.

In this report, we take a look at how the marketing environment has changed over the last 12 months and how this compares to the last 10 years.

Key focus areas include:

- Sentiments
- Priorities
- Anticipated budgets
- Communication channels
- Business challenges
- Preparedness in relation to these specific challenges.

What is driving expected changes in budget?

Challenges with leadership

66

I work in childcare. The sector is run by under-educated leaders who don't understand what marketing is other than advertising / new lead generation.

New management with lack of understanding of how marketing can contribute to the growth function of the business. Seen as a cost centre rather than a revenue centre.

Organisational changes in higher managements/levels

Tightening of purse strings

66

Push from global to reduce our costs

Less income, tightening of expenditure

Tighter fiscal management - cuts across all 'support services'

Shift in focus

Profit squeeze and technical focus of the organisation. Marketing is seen as an optional spend.

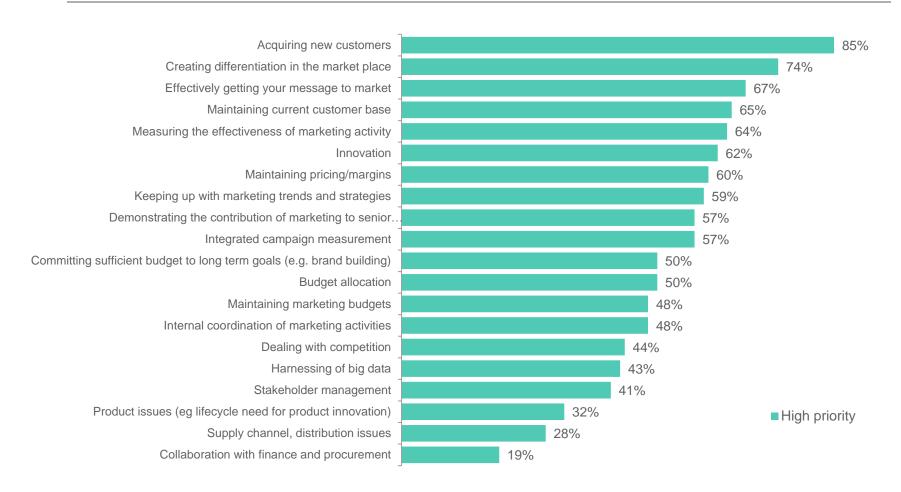

More emphasis on relationship building

What is driving recent changes in marketing priorities and focus?

Digital era

66

Moving from paper based collateral to digital collateral. Moving from broadcast media to digital media channels where specific audiences can be found. Better bang for the buck.

Digital transformation projects focusing largely on improving customer experience and online sales

Technology, Consumerism (buyers getting smarter with easier access to information)

Focus on brand

Corporate strategy - meeting brand and growth targets while developing a differentiated and superior customer experience

Rebrand and new offerings introduced mid-2017

Market changes

Changing market conditions and identification of need to continue to modernise marketing practices in line with best standards

More emphasis on relationship building

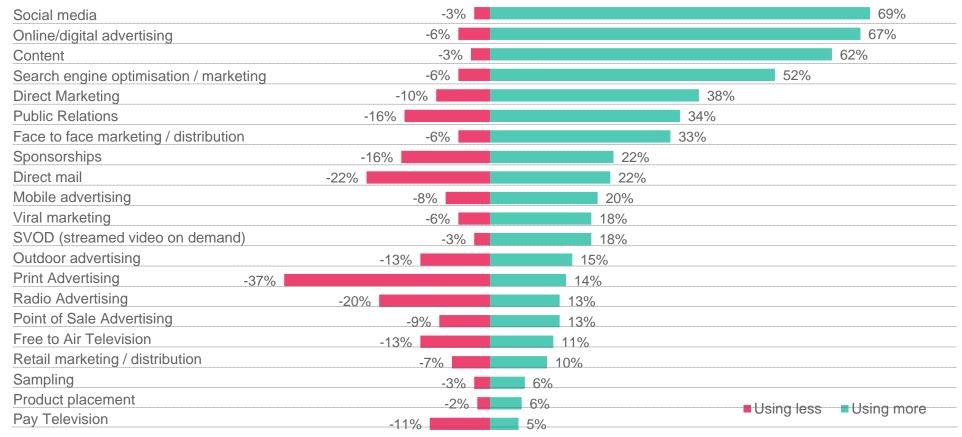

External environment conditions increasing competition

Q. What is driving these changes in your marketing priorities and focus? Please type your response below Base size 2017: Total n=174

Recent changes in communication channels.

What is driving recent changes in channel usage?

Customers driving change

The target audiences testing new channel effectiveness

Customer base and how they consume content

B2B and B2C customers are changing how and where they find information so we are endeavouring to place our communication where they are looking

Less 'traditional' approach

Law firms are embracing online marketing/promoting/selling a lot more now

Marketing strategies are emerging and changing to less traditional models, especially for SMEs

Changing attitudes among senior executive/management towards evolving technologies and non-traditional platforms

Digital, digital, digital

The increased importance of online and social media is driving a lot of our current marketing strategies

Customer engagement through changes in content especially video content, ability to measure ROI from digital channels better than traditional print or outdoor

The access of digital and the increased traffic online is a key driver here. This is a space we need to be strong to acquire NEW customers (our loyal customers will primarily use older methods)

Q. What is driving these changes in your use of different communication channels? (open-ended response) Base size 2017: Total n=174
